

BREMEN'S NEW WORLD: ÜBERSEESTADT

DIVERSE & DELICIOUS

Old warehouses and contemporary architecture line weather-worn quays and spruced-up boulevards. You can hear the lapping waves and the occasional low rumble of trains travelling to and from the port. Glass, steel and brick dominate Überseestadt, Bremen's new harbour district. It will be a number of years yet before Europe's biggest construction site reaches completion, but this area and the neighbouring Walle district are already home to art galleries, restaurants and various artisan producers of exquisite specialities from northern Germany. Those who enjoy quality drinks will feel particularly at home in Überseestadt, where fair-trade coffee, refreshing craft beer and high-end spirits are waiting to be sampled.

If you struggle to pick a favourite, you can also buy one of the various Bremen boxes, which contain a medley of tasty treats from Bremen's artisan food makers. They come in four different sizes and a number of variants – some with alcohol and some without – ensuring that there is an option for every taste and appetite. These boxes make a great souvenir to bring back from beautiful Bremen.

GOOD FOOD AND DRINK IS AT THE HEART OF THE BREMEN LIFESTYLE

Melt-in-the-mouth chocolates, fine wines, aromatic coffee and refreshing beer – Bremen has been a trading hub for exquisite food and drinks for hundreds of years. Did you know that every other cup of coffee drunk in Germany is supplied by a Bremen company? Or that the first coffee shop in the German-speaking countries opened in Bremen back in 1673? Here, you'll find both international brands and family-owned businesses that are steeped in tradition. The array of restaurants, bars, cafés and artisan food producers means there's no shortage of places to enjoy the finer things in life. In many small businesses and workshops, locals put their heart and soul into creating the most wonderful handmade delicacies. These make the perfect souvenir for visiting tourists. Visitors can also glimpse behind the scenes and find out how the finished product is made.

Our Gourmet Route is designed to provide an introduction to the world of good food and drinks in Bremen. Enjoy the variety of offers and maybe you will find a little something to take home.

What is MARKTHALLE ACHT?
 Markthalle ACHT, located right on Domshof square, is an innovative venue where all of Bremen comes together to eat and drink. It is a great place to explore sustainable and responsible food culture and new food concepts. Why not drop by and have a look?

Where can I get a great fish bun in Bremen?
 No need to trek all the way to the sea-side for a good fish bun. In the centre of Bremen, seafood restaurants such as "Knurrhahn" and "Fisherman's Seafood" serve excellent fresh fish.

What is a rollo?

A rollo is a thin, stuffed and rolled-up flatbread. When it comes to what's inside, you'll be spoilt for choice. Gyros, falafel and a vegan filling are only a few of the plentiful options available. It's well worth a try.
